Neighbor States May Step in to Balk Revolutionary Government.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris.—Detachments sent to apprehend Stamboulsky, Bulgarian premier deposed by revolutionists, have as yet failed in their mission, says a dispatch from Le Journal's Sofia correspondent. He adds that Stamboulsky Sunday was defending himself in his villa at Slavo Vitz, with the aid of gendarmes and peasants.

The new government, headed by Prof. Alexander Zankoff, is said to be willing that the former premier should leave the country, as the ministry seeks above all to avoid bloodshed.

Opposition Put Down

Reporters in the province, says the correspondent, are that armored cars were sent to Plevna to disperse some thousands of peasants who had armed to resist the new regime. The ministry of war expressed the belief that this opposition was put down without difficulty, as was also a similar manifestation at Radomir.

Isolated shots were heard in Sofia Saturday. All the shops in the city closed their doors, even to the bakers' establishments.

French are pessimistic. French officials are openly pessimistic over the situation created in Bulgaria and the Balkans by Saturday's coup d'etat. Although there is the opinion that Stamboulsky's friends are strong enough numerically to come through the crisis, the attitude of Bulgaria's neighbor states is believed to be unfavorable to a revolutionary government and there is some hope that she will be permitted to solve her problems herself.

Monarch Favored

The King correspondent says it is believed in the Bulgarian capital that King Boris knows of the revolutionary plan and is thought to view favorably the overthrow of Stamboulsky, who put the monarch in the position of a figurehead. Premier Zankoff, says the writer, has been on intimate terms with the king. The new premier, a socialist, professor of law at Sofia university, is believed to be a power in the revolution, and is thought to have been extensively throughout Germany, Austria and Hungary during the war.

KING BORIS RECEIVES NEW MINISTRY MEMBERS

Sofia.—Complete tranquility prevailed in Sofia Sunday morning. Premier Zankoff, head of the new government has assigned the portfolio of foreign affairs to Christo Kalfout, while Col. Yankoff is the new minister of justice. News of the new ministry met with the exception of the communists and the peasants.

The king received the members of the new ministry yesterday. Premier Zankoff called upon the diplomatic representatives and informed them of the change in government. The Bulgarian press published a note asserting that the leaders of the communist party have announced they will be loyal to the new regime.

Justice Brandeis, delivering the opinion, stated that Congress had the power to require the federal reserve banks to collect all checks at par and did not impose on such banks a duty to introduce par clearance against the wishes of some of the banks affected.

Justice Vandever and Sutherland dissented.

Washington.—President Harding's conference with the governors of the several states with respect to cooperation in enforcing prohibition will be postponed until next autumn.

So many of the legislatures have remained in session, requiring the presence of the governors to sign bills and attend to other executive duties, and Mr. Harding himself is scheduled to leave here in another fortnight for his western trip, that it is impracticable to hold the conference until after his return from Alaska.

Governors are shy. Several of the governors who are anxious to attend the conference have indicated that if it is held in France, they will be unable to attend. ## PROGRESSIVES DEFEAT OWN TAX BILLS IN FACTION FIGHT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison.—The Dahl bill, originally set for action in the assembly Wednesday, was placed Monday on the calendar for Thursday. It is believed that the usually heavy calendar of business caused the change, according to Speaker John L. Dahl.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison.—The Dahl bill, long remaining tax measure pending in the Wisconsin legislature following the slaughter of five revenue bills Saturday, is before the assembly for consideration Wednesday morning.

On this proposal the progressive republicans base their hope for a compromise, and for the success of a revenue measure that will carry out platform pledges, according to expression by members.

Muddled by Blaine Bloc. Some of the senate representatives of Governor Blaine approached Senator H. J. Severson Monday, asking if they might use his income surtax measure as a sub to the Dahl bill.

Senator Severson, whose bill was killed by a vote of 15 to 15, with one progressive voting against it, told the governor's representative that he would consider the matter.

It is up to those progressive senators who killed the progressive tax bill to act now. Senator Severson said, "I won't allow my bill to be offered as a sub to the Dahl bill until the speaker wants it."

This tax situation has been muddled by the governor's followers who declared that they wouldn't vote for a bill that didn't bear his name, and it is up to them to work their way out of it.

Would Rally Forces. Robert M. La Follette, Jr., was in conference with Governor Blaine early Monday, discussing the tax situation in a final effort to get a bill that will pass. The younger La Follette declared that the progressives were "feeling ahead with the fight" and would not be discouraged.

Interesting proceedings are predicted by assemblymen when the Dahl bill comes up on Wednesday. A review of the whole tax controversy is expected by them with various expressions to be made that the assemblymen claim will have a vital influence on the next political campaign.

MALEFACTORS JAM MUNICIPAL COURT IN MONDAY RUSH

Madison.—The police department put in a busy week-end arresting liquor drinkers, speeders and other traffic law violators and as a result gave Judge H. L. ## AMERICAN PRIMA DONNA WARBLER AT WHITE HOUSE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison.—With the Dahl bill the only remaining tax measure before the legislature, following a sensational slaughter by the senate Saturday of five separate revenue bills, Speaker John L. Dahl of the assembly announced Monday that he was prepared to call together a conference of progressive and conservative in an effort to arrive at a compromise on the problem.

Whether such a conference would be able to draft a new revenue bill that could muster sufficient strength to get by the senate is considered doubtful, because of the hostility of Governor Blaine toward the speaker. The governor had three of his own revenue bills killed by the upper house with large majorities. Senators say that this fact may cause him to look askance anything the speaker or Senator H. J. Severson may do.

La Follette, Watch Slaughter. Robert M. La Follette, Jr., chairman of the republican state central committee, Phil La Follette and Attorney General Herman L. Ekern act on the side lines of the senate throughout the day, as one tax measure after the other went down to its death at the hands of conservatives who would not budge.

Following the session, the younger Bob La Follette declared that he was not at all discouraged by the situation. He said that there was still time in which the progressives could carry out their platform pledges on the revenue bill.

BAPTISM FEATURE OF CHILDREN'S DAY

Special Exercises and Sermons Presented in Several of Churches.

Simple but appropriate exercises, special music and a profusion of flowers were outstanding features of the Children's Day exercises held on Sunday in several of the local churches. There was an exceptional large attendance at most of the services, and as usual, the younger children were the center of interest, providing the program in many instances.

At the Baptist church, 20 babies were received into the cradle roll of the church in a simple dedication ceremony which included the bestowal of a beautiful rosebud upon each child. The children were: David Park Drummond, Joyce Marie Davies, John E. Smith, David Eugene Radloff, Eugene Haskins, Alice Jeanette Wilson, Donald Leroy Lawrence, Mary Elizabeth Cain, Emory Marvin Bumgarner, Beatrice Bumgarner, Margaret Florence Fleson, Marjorie Jeanne Schade, Robert Oliver Schade, Shirley Kaye Elov, Merrill Eugene Johnson, and a family of five children which included Ethel, Clifford, Gladys, Kenneth and Ethel Perry.

MRS. F. F. LEWIS WRITES FROM BRINK OF PELE CRATER

Mrs. F. F. Lewis, wife of the president of the Lewis Knitting Mills, of Janesville, who with Mr. Lewis, has been spending the winter in the Hawaiian Islands, has written a description of the eruption of Mount Pele, the native name of Kilauea. Mrs. Lewis, who was long a resident of Hawaii is familiar with the idiosyncrasy of Pele and has most interestingly written of this volcanic outburst.

Kilauea Volcano House, Hawaii National Park, Hawaii, May 23, 1922.

Editor Gazette: This letter will be unusual among your correspondence in that it is written on the brink of a crater, Kilauea, the Wonderful, of the island of Hawaii. A good number of your readers have seen this volcano, but that is not saying they have seen it in its present showing. Pele, the goddess of fire, is a capricious lady, and gives no reliable promise one day what she will be doing the next. Just now she is very active. Though I have seen this crater several times in the past, it has never shown the wonderful picture of today. The high island, "Crater," they call it here, that stood so firmly in the molten lava three years ago has entirely disappeared, and the whole bottom of the crater is one level expanse. But how can I give those of your readers who have never seen a volcano an idea of what it is like?

The whole Kilauea is an elongated circle, three miles in diameter the shortest way, with walls of rough lava varying from 200 to 800 feet in height. The whole area is 2,500 acres. It is a dome in the center of the crater, it looks fairly smooth, with steam rising from its surface in countless little white patches; but a walk over this lava will certainly test the endurance and strength and patience of the strongest. Nothing could be harder to walk on than lava. I have walked over lava hardened hardly more than two hours from its molten state, but cannot stand still for one minute without burning the feet uncomfortably on this hot rock. In the floor of the crater, well to one side, is a fire pit called "Mafu," where the lava is broken by intermittent fountains of lava, sometimes 20 spouting at once, to various heights, possibly 50 or even 75 feet, then dropping down and causing activity, while some remain active all the time. Some parts of the dark floor crack, and lines of fire run scolding along to meet other lines, and break the darkness with different shaped portions, some of these are in a more molten state than others, and curl with heavy coils and move in a slow stream to what must be a lower level in the floor. The cracks of the lava are constantly changing the map of the floor. The heat is almost beyond measure; it seems while you look to bend and break and melt the molten earth.

But am I trying to describe a volcano, the Volcano of Kilauea? Let me rather give the invitation "Come and see." It is not a hard trip, the automobile taking you to within a few feet of the brink of the fire-pit. The ride from the comfortable hotel, the "Volcano House," on the rim of the crater, is through a tropical jungle of trees and native trees, over a good road of seven miles, to the side of the pit.

There are sights on the way worth stopping to see—little extinct craters, a natural lava tunnel, the Devil's Throat, and a trail across the larger crater.

Kilauea is the largest active volcano in the world, and is certainly the principal feature in the Hawaiian National Park. It has been designated by the United States government as one of the national parks.

Near the hotel are the banks of pure sulphur, the lava tree-molds, the place where the "Kahuna" sat and whiled away his time, broken by Kapoian, defied Pele by standing on the brink of the crater and eating the "olelo" berry that was sacred to Pele.

Vesuvius is as a tall candle to a powerful electric light compared to Kilauea, and while Vesuvius is most tiresome and difficult to reach, Kilauea is easy to access; even the old and the infirm may reach it.

Wonderful as is the sight of this volcano, it is the sight of the "Paradise of the Pacific" and of the world. The skies here are so blue, the large, trailing clouds are so low, the air is so soft and warm with their large proportion of yellows, the flowering trees are bouquets so extraordinary, and the happy spirit of good-will and brotherhood that pervades the air, makes Kilauea a land of heart's delight, and greatly to be desired as a place for home.

Hawaii is the richest place per capita in the world, I have been told; but while this wealth is in the hands of comparatively few, it produces no marked distinction of classes. Some one has lately said, "The missionaries came to Hawaii with the Bible in one hand and their purses in the other. This is only partly true. The old missionaries to Hawaii had no purses in their hands, but were men and women who lived lives of uncomplaining self-denial. There are many races in Hawaii but for the most part there is absolute peace in this melting-pot. Of all the immigrants here those who have proved themselves the most desirable are the Chinese. Many of them are thoroughly Americanized, and are so law-abiding, so thrifty and seem to have high moral sense and are desirable citizens. A good number served in the American army during the late war, and were over-seas.

The United States seems to be coming to a true sense of the value of the Hawaiian Islands as a national asset. Ever since their annexation in 1898 they have been a source of profit, rather than one of expense, their return to the United States being a large gain to the nation for the government. It seems now that Pearl Harbor may be made a Gibraltar, as it can so easily be made. But make no mistake, my letter is not about the beautiful Hawaiian word, "Aloha," I close.

ELLEN M. H. LEWIS.

SQUATTERS IN MINNEAPOLIS FLATS THREATEN BLOODSHED IN RENT WAR

Minneapolis.—If the law attempts to evict residents of the "Little Bohemia" on the West flat, district, it will be done with bloodshed. Efforts of attorneys for C. M. Smith, owner of certain property beneath the Washington ave. bridge, and attorneys for the river flat dwellers to effect a settlement have failed. The Little Bohemia settlement, composed mostly of Bohemians, is unapologetic in its declaration of war against those who would take away the property on which they have built their homes and on which they have lived, in many cases for more than 40 years.

Legal status of the case rests on a claim of Smith to back rent on the land which he bought from former owners two years ago. The ownership of the land by Smith is admitted by those who live on the land. These people have refused to pay rent, claiming squatters' rights. Friday, both the tenants and Smith announced they would not give in. The tenants further stated to interpreters they would fight for their homes even if it meant bloodshed. According to David Lundeen, attorney for the tenants, the latest amount due Smith for rent is $147 and the smallest, $40. The rent on most of the property is but $18 a year.

An attorney, accompanied by Lieut. H. M. Burke, court officer, appeared in the district and attempted to serve writs of restitution by which Smith would collect the rentals due him or eject the occupants from the premises.

But the two met with resistance. The men were met by their wives and their children held battle royal with the two officers and the district began to take on the proportions of a riot when a patrol wagon with a squad of police officers arrived. The officers were ordered to clear the area and the fight was in progress, arrived with one document. The battle was temporarily won by members of the colony.

STOCK MEN WILL PICNIC, TUESDAY

Holstein Breeders of Two Counties to Gather Near State School.

Holstein cattle breeders of Rock and Walworth counties will meet Tuesday at the grove near the Wisconsin State School for the Blind for a picnic. Several hundred head of black and white cows are expected.

A speaking program has been arranged, with athletic games and a demonstration will be given by Willett Huggins.

Relations between Walworth and Rock counties will be "strained" when the two rival baseball teams take the field. The Rock county men are looking on their battery of Archie Reid, Jr., and J. A. Craig. President Craig and J. W. Jones returned recently from the national convention of Holstein breeders held in Cleveland. There were 215 head sold at the national sale and the average, counting calves, was $692. The top price was for a herd sire, consigned by the Carnation Farm, Mendota, Segis Hartog, a son of the champion De Kol Piss Segis Dixie, was sold to make a 1700 pound butter record. The dam now has a credit of 1613 pounds of butter and 22.11 pounds of milk in 342 days. The Battle Creek Sanatorium paid $4,100 for this animal.

On Thursday the Duroc-Jersey swine breeders of Rock, Walworth and Jefferson counties will meet at the Rock county farm. National association officers will speak at this inter-county picnic and roast Duroc will be served at the noon hour.

Matheson Again Heads Y. M. C. A.; Others Renamed

At the first meeting of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. Korst, vice-president; George Jacobs, treasurer; and E. M. Erickson, recording secretary.

Many words of commendation accompanied the unanimous vote for reelection. Reports from the staff members showed a healthy condition, and much active work being done. Financial report shows improvement, but much more money is needed. Two committees were appointed, the first to employ staff members and have frequent conferences with the staff members on the work; the second to outline a future policy and determine if a new building would be a feasible project. J. R. Jensen heads the first, on which are C. S. Atwood, George Sherman and E. O. Holt, while P. H. Korst is chairman of the second, and others on it are J. L. Wilcox, A. R. Glaner, S. C. Eostwick and William McFar.

FORTY RECEIVE HONORS AT H. S.

Athletes, Speakers, Stock Judges Awarded Medals, Emblems.

Recognition of efforts of students in athletics, both boys and girls, in public speaking, stock judging, and in other lines of endeavor, occurred at the high school at the final senior school assembly of the year Monday morning when pins, medals, letters and cups were awarded. More than 40 students of all three classes were honored in one way or another, and the whole program wound up with rousing cheers for boys, girls, speakers and speakers, led by John Bolender.

In boys' athletics, the new plan, decided upon last fall, was put into operation. The basketball letter in blue, six inches, for one year; for two years, the same, with a layer of white felt below it; for three years, seven inches and still another layer of blue. For football, the same scheme is followed with the original letter white. For track, a blue letter, not blocked, is awarded. For the boys' program, the white on which the blue J. H. S. Letters are awarded, there being two sizes.

Many Football Awards.—Honors in football went to Charles Kneib, senior, John Young, Clifford Conry (star for captaincy) and Ray Leary, each two; Golden Mallet, Lawrence Benson, Walter Nightingale, Birrell Walsh, J. Leary, the Babe, George Benson, Robert Hammill, George Renaud, Albert Meek and Lyle Seeman, each one year awards. Alan Decker was given a business manager award.

Edna H. Dickinson, Merck and Leroy Dickinson were chief honor winners in basketball, each having a letter for two years. Seeman's has the captaincy star. These with one honor each in this sport are George Renaud, Ray Leary and Don Dawson.

As this was the first year awards have been given for track, each of the four winners received a one-year award, they being Sven Sorenson, William Austin and Dickinson.

Dickinson was loudly applauded at the exercises as being the only sportsman to win honors in all three sports.

Winners of special honors in girls' gymnasium and athletic work are Doris Peterson, Louise Decker, Margaret Hodge, Edna Hjorth, Alice Ward and Agnes Johnson, while those who were given regular awards along this same line are Helen Cushing, Margaret Hemming, Helen Riley, Lillian Ellis, Beulah Ellis, Virginia Ellis, Marjorie Kagle, Robert Corn, Opal Geeser, Gladys Snider, Alice Wittenberg and Louise Mori. Miss Edna Hjorth cut and made all the emblems and letters.

Public Speakers Honored.—Phyllis Luchinger, winner of the local and district declamatory contests, was presented with the medal for that department by Miss Mildred Mandel. Other awards she made were to Philip Lickow, winner of the local oratorical contest (Lovejoy medal); Arthur Maimberg, local extemporaneous contest (Recorder medal); and John Matheson, winner of the local extemporaneous contest.

Cashiers and assistants of victory groups of Misses Mary Howland and Mrs. Kessler, and those of the teachers, were awarded the championship for the best year's average of saving. The two groups were tied and there were also ties for second and third places.

The Massacre of June Ninth.

Memorable in history should be the Madison Massacre on June 9th. Other famous massacres have gone into history; the Boston, in the early days before the revolution; the Mountain Meadow which took United States troops to Utah as a curb on the Mormons; the Marias des Cygnes, in the early days of Kansas; that at Fort Pillow, when the negro troops were slain in cold blood after surrender to Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, who by the way, was the first big chief of the original Ku Klux Klan in 1867; but none of them were of any value to the world such as the contribution made by the state senate on Saturday, June 9th, 1923, in its bloodless slaughter of tax bills.

There was no sole survivor. The committee bill framed under the guiding hand of Robert M. La Follette, Jr., as an antidote to the governor's bill, was first to die. The governor's friends snatched it up and carried it to the floor. Then the La Follette friends arose in wrath and slaughtered the Blaine bill with Corsican vengeance. You could almost hear the screams of pain as far west as Escobedo. In between came amendments. Our own distinguished statesman, Senator Carey, saw his little amendment carried out on a stretcher to the morgue. This would have put the Blaine idea into the La Follette measure which was not for a moment to be countenanced. And then there was Senator Severson's bill. By this time the senate saw red and the bill of its own fellow member died and was buried beyond recall.

Trembling over in the assembly is the Dahl bill—the Last of the Mohicans. It dared not enter the senate chamber. It will be clothed in some new garments, a few new buttons will be sewed on, a red ribbon tied in its hair and with new pin-afore and collar, be sent, like Little Red Riding Hood, to meet the senate wolf.

All of which comes in the day's work. There was not one of the measures but deserved to die; not one of the bills or amendments killed but deserved death. They have been only makeshifts to save someone with radical ideas on taxation. La Follette has played against Blaine and Blaine against La Follette. The socialists have played against and for both and voted for all the bills. The few men who have from the first had a definite tax program and made definite statements as to what they believed was an honest and orderly manner of getting at a tax plan for the state, not only for this but succeeding sessions, have been ignored and ostracized when it came to formulating tax legislation. They have been opposed to all the measures killed and voted consistently against the quintet of bills when presented Saturday. The others voted generally in the negative to "get" either the Blaine or the La Follette faction—a pure matter of revenge and factional differences in the so-called progressive party ranks.

The outlook now is that there will be no tax bill passed. The Dahl bill has no chance. The same men and the same factions in the senate which killed the Severson bill will destroy the Dahl bill and for the same reasons of revenge. There may be a special session later for making a taxation measure. But if so, it is passed by men who have, with determined mind, attempted to run the state legislature this winter and spring, must give attention to a solid and unbreakable minority. The progressive leadership of the state may be warned now and remember well that no tax bill can or will be passed which does not have the approval to some extent of the conservative business judgment of the men who are in the senate to represent the people of the state and not the personal political fortunes of either Governor Blaine or the family of La Follette.

The Milwaukee man who was fined a year in prison for stealing nine automobiles may consider that after his vacation he can make auto theft a permanent and fairly safe business.

Community Playdays.

The playdays put on by the schools and local committees and the members of the Gazette Good Times club with schools of ten townships participating in seven of these gatherings, are a successor to the old fashioned event which we used to call a picnic. Playday is a good name, and true, because those participating whether old or young, are supposed to play and do play. This year pennants are being given by the Gazette and local committees and have been so far a stimulant, and we believe, will continue in stimulating friendly rivalry and school spirit. Folks are learning to work together and to understand each other better. One of its dividends is in local leadership of the community which the plan helps to develop and the inspiration of a greater community spirit. When it becomes a generally established fact that playdays are to be an annual occurrence, the schools will look to that day as the round-up for activities and regular programs which have been in mind and a part of the school work during the recesses for some prior weeks. Parents will take a deeper interest. That is one reason why the response has been so general and generous to the Gazette Good Times club plan. Nearly 3,000 children of the rural schools are now in its membership and it offers great promise for the future.

THE RAPID FIRE CAMERA

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—The fascination of the slow motion picture has been well proved by the Department of Agriculture. A reel showing the gait of horses has proved one of the most popular films ever made by the government.

It is not so long since nobody knew how a horse ran. The horse was a favorite subject for artists, and they painted it dashing around Roman race tracks, escaping from fires, and carrying excited lovers bent on eloping. But these artists, who had presumably studied horses in action, invariably painted them racing with the legs stretched front and back in the long graceful lines of a hobby horse.

It was Remington who first painted a racing horse with its legs bunched together. He thereby attracted to himself ridicule and scorn, but other close observers took another look and upheld Remington's ideas.

That there was so much inaccurate observation of horses seems now a thing to be wondered at. It is true that some mathematicians did demonstrate logically that a horse's legs could never work quickly enough to carry him a mile in two minutes. This record, however, has been reached and passed many times since the mathematician's announcement was made, and a race horse in action is never a favorable object for analytical study by the unassisted eye.

Now, the high speed camera shows exactly how a horse trots, canters, paces, and gallops, and it is shown, of course, beyond any doubt, that Remington was right.

It is some years since Professor Muybridge made his famous experiment of photographing race horses in action. At the request of Senator Stanford, who bred fine horses, Muybridge located a number of cameras at set points along the Palo Alto race track, and attached threads to the cameras. These threads ran across the track, so that as the horse broke through each thread a picture would be taken. When these pictures were put together in a series, the idea could be obtained of the motions of the horse.

Then came the motion picture camera, but it could not be used to analyze motion because pictures can not be satisfactorily run off at a speed of less than 16 a second. At a lower rate of projection, the pictures do not fuse one into another, and the effect of continuous motion is lost. A camera had to be invented to take pictures 10 times as fast.

Pictures of jumping technique were taken at the national horse show last year. One of General Pershing's horses, Dandy Dude, was used to demonstrate the jumps. Running pictures were made at the Laurel race course, and a cavalry charge was filmed at Fort Myer.

The varied career of this picture indicates the uses to which the slow motion picture can be and is being put. These films are mostly exhibited as novelties. To see a tennis player, ballet dancer or stamptek comedian float lazily through the air from one pose to another is very interesting, but it is not of much use, namely that human beings are more graceful in their motions than we ordinarily realize.

The government film is being put to practical uses. After one college class in horse husbandry had reviewed the film, the professor declared the students had learned more about gait of horses in 15 minutes than they had previously learned in the term's work.

The army remount service is using the government picture to demonstrate good points and gains and to point out to the members of the army. Cavalry men are being shown how to sit and how to handle their mounts in different gaits. And horse associations are interested in the film since it displays standards of form and gait.

It is not recorded that any startling discoveries regarding horses have been made through this film analysis of their locomotion. There are other creatures, however, that may be shown to us in a new light by rapid camera studies. The soaring of birds, for instance, has never been analyzed, and even a high speed camera can not take pictures quickly enough to show the action of swiftly flying birds.

This sort of thing is being analyzed by an ultra rapid camera, invented by C. Francis Jenkins of this city. In the slow motion pictures which you see occasionally in a theater the action is about one tenth as fast. The camera takes about 160 pictures a second instead of the usual 16.

Jenkins takes pictures at a rate of 1,600 a second, and he expects next fall to be able to take 3,000 a second. This means that the motions, when shown, are one tenth to one thirtieth the speed of the slow pictures you generally see. Mr. Jenkins has shown the exact motion of a pigeon's wings, which no one had even been able to guess at. His pictures demonstrated that the back stroke, when the wings touch over the head, propels the bird, while the forward stroke, when the wings meet under the body, sustains the pigeon in the air. This sort of data is of interest to aviators, and it is thought possible that further studies of bird flight may reveal information which will help men in flying.

Other questions which the ultra rapid camera can answer relate to the course and type of motion of a cannon ball. The theories of ballistics assume that the ball takes a certain course; but does it? Whether the recoil of a gun is jumpy or steady is another point awaiting demonstration by camera analysis.

The ultra rapid camera, the inventor says, is for engineering, and engineering. The rate of the motions is too slow for the pictures to be displayed popularly. A dive from a springboard which would take a swimmer only a few seconds seems a long, tedious flight and descent in the ultra rapid camera.

Two interesting points were shown clearly in a picture of this type. One was the force and effort concentrated in the diver's arm muscles. The other fact shown related to the water. After the first splash of spray, as the swimmer disappeared, the water followed the secondary splash due to water rushing in to fill the space left by the body. This second splash was shown to be higher than the first.

Mr. Jenkins compares his camera to a high powered microscope. Just as the microscope magnifies objects, so the camera magnifies motion. And Mr. Jenkins adds that the powerful rapid firing camera like the powerful microscope is revealing things about nature that men never dreamed of.

of the Ku Klux Klan, ousted later by others who have cleared several hundred thousand dollars out of the scheme, says the Ku Klux has fallen into the hands of the spoliators and so he has started a new order called the "Knights of Kamelot." Old Uncle Joe has been saying the meanest things about the Klux. His language is as fiery as its flaming cross. He calls the Klan chiefs "money grabbers" and such and such. He ought to know all about it. But why all this "Kl" business? It lacks the kick of the Klux.

The Milwaukee Journal Madison correspondent says that the liquid refreshment taken by Senator Bernard Moran on the road made him ill. Evidently Sauk county should look into its water supply.

The Tuckey bill repealing the Severson law may fall of passage in the senate but the supreme court of the state has already accomplished most of the results the bill seeks.

What can one expect of New York city? The desirable immigrants take a train right west; the worst of the lot remains.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

RAIN

The skies are hanging low today.
And countless fountains in the street
Splutter and splash about our feet;
The city wears a dress of gray.
And every sad-faced passer-by
Seems almost audibly to sigh.

The gusty wind is biting cold.
Buildings seem mournful when they're so wet.
The tender grass needs rain, and yet
The joy of many a fellow soul
Is in the bitter grief which nimbly
We're never ready when it comes.

We know some day the rain must fall.
We know some day that we must weep
And lose the precious joy we'd reap;
This is the common fate of all.
Yet always to Our God we pray,
Let us not bear the blow today.

We are not ready now for tears.
A few days longer let us smile.
Spare us for just a little while.
We shall be braver down the years!
Lord, let these dark clouds pass away,
Let us not suffer grief today.

So standing at life's window pane,
Let us remember and be brave.
Life is not long, and we must leave.
Our tears must fall as fall the rain;
Let us, when sorrow comes our way,
Be ready with our faith today.

Girl of Ghost Mountain

By J. ALLAN DUNN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. Mary Burrows, with a giant Swedish Thor, lives on the plateau on top of Ghost Mountain in Arizona. Peter Sheridan, New York lawyer with tuberculosis, has bought a ranch at Chico Mesa, and is recovering his health. His inseparable companion, Red Jackson, foreman of the ranch, they rescue a Chinaman, Quonee, from the clutches of Hollister, a cattle rustler. Peter finds a way to the ranch on top of the mountain and tells the bad man of Hollister's attempt to marry the woman. Red is in love with Thora. Hollister, swearing revenge, kidnaps Mary and takes her to the Sonoran in the night. He is drinking poison and going blind, staggers off and is lost. Mary alone, is rescued later by Peter, who has hidden after her. Tales of marvelous girl in the canyon are told. Quonee, who was once the keeper and a blind house in San Francisco, reveals the location of the caves and the gold there ready to be taken out. Sheridan and others form an expedition to go in search of the treasure.

He ran across the Sheriff of the county on the street and the official halted and stopped him. "How often you're not out of the house yet, Sheriff," he said. "Federal man's here, stirring me up about it. Though I know his blazes. But, if they do bootleg, I ought to be decent stuff, not corked lightning. Know anything of it? You aim to run a sober ranch, I reckon."

Things were breaking well, thought Sheridan. The idea of a telephone exchange had worried him. "If you can catch him with the goods," he said, "the man you want to get after is Vasquez. He has a shack just west of Metzal, and he tells me he brews poison. I never sampled it. But—"

"Heard the gent," replied the sheriff. "Thanks for the tip. A rattlesnake buzzes afore he pizens you, but this Vasquez charges you for killing 'em. I reckon. There'll be action here in a few days."

Sheridan's last errand was with the County Commissioner of Deeds. He had done business with him before but his present mission was not on his own account. He did not imagine that Mary Burrows' grandfather had troubled to file on the Hidden Homestead, probably no one suspected the existence of such a charming lord of the mountains, but some one might discover it sooner or later, and cover it. The girls might be disappointed, as the first put to the cost and vexation of a suit.

He liked the Commissioner, as he liked many men in Ploche. It was a go-ahead town, with its law on the main line, and it stood for law and order and improvement. He hoped to make Metzal a better place than Ploche some day, but he approved of Ploche, and its general public spirit. This official was a square man, Sheridan had found out in previous dealings. He went before his duties in kind, and he asked for advice. Through him Sheridan had gained control of Lake of the Woods.

"Ploche's booming, sir," said the man, "but I'm coming. Up to date. Two hundred rooms and three hundred baths, or something like that. You want to get busy at your like and build something of the sort there on a smaller scale, to catch the overflow."

"I'm a rancher," smiled Sheridan. "I've come here in the interests of a friend of mine. I want to help them, or rather get you to help them, prove up on their property. Two women. It may go in both their names or in one. Miss Burrows has a good moral life. I want to see it legal," and he gave the Commissioner a short account of the Ghost Mountain venture.

"I've heard of the ladies. Seen them in pictures. I'll do the best I can. Glad to see them. Tell them to come right in and see me, Sheridan. And here's the papers for them to fill in. Glad to see you."

GAINS 18 POUNDS BY USING TANLAC

Sullivan Declares It Ended Stomach Trouble Entirely—Feeling Fine Now.

"My case of stomach trouble was so bad that I bought twelve bottles of Tanlac, but when I finished taking the ninth one I had gained eighteen pounds and felt like a man made all over again," so declared John E. Sullivan, 517 Columbia Terrace, Toledo, O., recently.

"I nearly always felt sick at the stomach and suffered terribly from indigestion. Pains and headaches followed my meals. I lost weight continually, and felt completely unwell."

"A friend of mine put me on to Tanlac and at that time I was going down grade in a hurry. But Tanlac saved me on the upgrade and now I am feeling fine. I consider Tanlac a revelation. It has been worth many times its cost to me."

"Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold."
